

ABSTRACT

A personal display shelf having a vertical support surface base, with horizontal transparent shelves, without visible exterior supports. The shelves are individual and geometrically placed to accommodate varying heights of articles. The shelves are designed to support personal fragrance bottles or other reasonably light weight collectables, and mounts on a wall in the home or office with mirror clips or picture hanging apparatus. This display shelf is designed to display collectables in an elegant manor for the owner of treasured collectables while saving space on dresser, sink, or any other traditional place for displaying fragrance bottles or other collectables. The personal display shelf can come in different styles, with a reflective support base or a clear glass support base both accenting the owners personal collectables.